August 2009...

From the president's pen . . .

There was a very poignant moment at the recent Gala Dinner, where Djuma, a young man of Congolese heritage who has recently arrived with us, stepped to the microphone. His courage in uttering just a few words was palpable: "I arrived in that camp in 2000 – and there my life was full of darkness", he said. "Life seemed without future; and then, in 2007, some hope emerged". And then it was the words that were not uttered that seemed to move us all. His presence, and that of his extended family spoke the words that could not be found, provoked a silent tear from many in the room. Our defining moments lie in the reflection on the work that we do; though it is seemingly few refugees that we reach, the very action of that reach brings light to many beyond our imagining.

It has been a busy month; we have welcomed four family groups, with another young Somali woman and her child to join us in mid-September. There are a number of other applications in the pipeline – it is certainly our hope that these applications will meet with success.

Many members and friends will be aware of the forum we held in May to seek direction on the extent and focus of refugee settlement within the local community. There was strong endorsement to continue in the direction that we have, and since that forum, a small group have endeavoured to provide guidance as to who should be sponsored; such decisions have not been easy, transitioning from an affirmative response to all refugees who seek our help, to one that is more discerning, focusing upon family connections (with those previously settled), the most vulnerable (e.g. young women), and young families; these prioritised sub-groups will be mixed with others in trying to maintain cultural diversity and links with customary norms – not an easy task! We have not set any definitive annual quota or country/continent specific.

Other events of the month included the hearings for the Human Rights Commission, which again expounded the positive contribution that the African community make to the broader social fabric in our community. We have also seen a transition in support agencies. St Vincent de Paul was awarded to the contract to establish the North Coast Refugee Service – with Mr Phillip Venness responsible for program development for the settled community; this will complement the inputs of Sanctuary Northern Rivers and Anglicare (who are contracted to support Sanctuary during the early months of settlement). Our gratitude to Mark Rusconi and the Lismore Neighbourhood Centre for their efforts over recent years in support of the settled entrants.

Finally, our call for volunteers to assist with the increase in arrivals has been fruitful. We have been blessed with a number of fine and positive people, young and older, who have shown a willingness to give a hand. The first cohort of these are being orientated and informed through a training program, conducted on a weekly basis over the past 6 weeks. This program provides both big picture, as well as detailed 'hands-on' knowledge of needs for refugee support on arrival. Demand exists for another course – we will provide information shortly as to how this will be managed.

We also welcome the efforts of Mullumbimby in wishing to initiate refugee settlement in the community there - hopefully we will soon have families settling in a number of towns out from Lismore.

To all those involved in the Dinner – thank you. We shared in something quite extraordinary. Michael

Annual Gala Dinner

It is with much gratitude to all who participated in the evening either as an audience member or as a volunteer, that we report this amazing Sold-Out Gala Event!

Supporters of Sanctuary Northern Rivers gathered in the A&I Hall in Bangalow on Sat August 29th to raise much-needed funds, to have a great night, and in the process, gained a better appreciation of what Sanctuary actually does for refugees!

About 180 guests attended. They were welcomed to the hall by a group of Rythm Konnections Drummers who set the scene for the journey from Africa to Australia. Once inside, diners were treated to some extraordinary chamber music by Ian Bowles' String Trio. Drinks flowed, and canapés were abundant until our MC, local ABC Radio host Bruce Mackenzie, called everyone to their tables. Parissa's Ruby Tuesday Choir took to the stage and stole the show with their enchanting renditions of African songs.

Then the audience were taken on the emotional "Letters of Hope" journey detailing the process that Sanctuary implements when sponsoring refugees in the camps of Africa.

Oh the Food! The Glorious Food! A BIG Congratulations to the Nash family Team! The kitchen seemed to run like clockwork and the food was outstanding!

Not a dry eye in the hall remained after an impromptu, moving presentation of flowers to Sanctuary from the Kikombe and Mapatano family who recently arrived in Lismore after ten years in Kakuma Refugee Camp.

Throughout the night the Raffles, Pick-a-box and Silent auctions kept hands in wallets and with such overwhelming generosity, Sanctuary has raised nearly $10,000!!! What a night! Thanks again to all who participated, it was such a moving, informative and successful evening!

HOMEWORK CENTRE

After a couple of false starts, Homework Centre has appointed its new coordinator!! Congratulations Jenny McGrath!

Primary and secondary aged students are coming along receiving the benefits of dedicated one-on-one tutoring. With new arrivals this month, the numbers of new students will swell and so the demand for tutors is again critical!

If you can spare a few hours on Monday or Wednesday to help tutor this eager bunch, please contact Community Connections:

Volunteering with Sanctuary

This month has seen great excitement with the commencement of the inaugural Sanctuary Volunteering Course run through Lismore TAFE Outreach.

Over-subscribed by more than 50%, the course has brought together a wonderful group of people with great diversity in background and skills. The course is coordinated by Sue Darnell, with support for content development and presentation from Katherine Morrison, Dave Noble and others.

Several of the course participants have had the opportunity for hands-on experience with the recent arrival of two Congolese families. Initially apprehensive, some new volunteers have delighted in the opportunity to assist new arrivals to settle quickly into the Lismore region.

Happy Sanctuary Volunteers: Brian, Rosalie and Sue

If you would like to participate in volunteering one or more of the following areas please send an expression of interest by email to info@sanctuary.asn.au

meet & greet on arrival
